WE ARE THE NEWS

The Namibian Environment & Wildlife Society (NEWS) is a membership-based organisation, open to anyone with an interest in our environment. The Society is run by employed staff in close co-operation with a voluntary committee elected annually from among its members.

NEWS is an organisation not-for-profit with the mission to conserve the natural environment of Namibia and to promote appropriate protection, wise and sustainable use of natural resources and sustainable development.

Rapid development, social and economic disparities and the ever-changing needs of a dynamic society are creating continuous conservation challenges in Namibia. NEWS strives towards a balance between the need for development, economic growth and equality and the need to sustain a healthy environment.

The valuable support of our corporate members and donors provides us with the financial means to pursue our objectives of promoting research, collecting and disseminating information on the environment and advancing community awareness of, and participation in, all aspects of conservation in Namibia.

Through our membership, we create a large network of individuals and organisations who care about our environment, share information and collaborate to contribute to conservation and sustainable development. A range of publications, talks, meetings and outings keeps members informed on environmental issues and facilitates a sharing of information. The Society gives us a public voice and allows us to demonstrate our environmental and social responsibility.

Spread the NEWS.

ENVIRONMENTAL UNDERSTANDING & PASSION

Environmental apathy is seen as one of our biggest environmental problems. Public awareness and understanding of the environment in general, and areas of conservation concern in particular, are vital in ensuring sustainable development and a healthy environment.

NEWS does not intend to be controversial or to slow down or hamper development. NEWS seeks positive dialogue and constructive co-operation with all environmental stakeholders and disseminates environmental information in order to facilitate informed and positive decision-making at all levels.

NEWS Programmes & Projects

NEWS concentrates on improving environmental understanding and eliminating environmental apathy through a variety of activities. These include youth, leadership and research programmes and projects focussing on education and applied conservation.

NEWS Publications

Our biannual environmental magazine, Roan News, features a wide variety of illustrated articles on current affairs, research and conservation projects and general natural history, providing an excellent overview of pertinent environmental issues.

Regular NEWS-letters keep our members up to date with the work of the Society and current issues of interest.

NEWS Public Talks

Monthly talks by local and international scientists and environmentalists inform our members and the general public about our environment and allow public debate on important issues.

Annual membership entitles you to two issues of Roan News and our regular NEWS-letter (including postage & handling), as well as free entry to talks and outings.
